A WORD TO THE TRADE

We do not sell cheap groceries, but we do sell groceries cheap. In other words, while our prices are away down, our goods are away up in quality. That is the reason why our trade increases every month we are in business. We couldn't hold our trade on inferior goods, and we wouldn't sell them to you. All we ask is for you to come to our store, get our prices, look at the goods, and investigate thoroughly every order, comparing prices with any you can get. We ask your trade on this basis. Come and see us, and it will not be our fault if you are not entirely satisfied.

United States and in 1864 he came within one vote of being nominated for vice-president in place of Andrew Johnson, who became president on the death of President Lincoln.

Mr. Grow was elected speaker of the house in 1861 and occupied that position during the first two years of the war until his retirement from congress in 1863.

Mr. Grow's greatest public service was as the "father of the homestead law," through which measure many million acres of western farm lands were opened up to settlement by homesteaders, an act which has been credited with doing more than any other one thing for the development of the great west.

Mr. Grow was the last surviving member of a family of six children. He was never married.

Brush Says It Is Due to Increased Cost of Maintenance.

New York, April 1.—Charles P. Mr. Brush said in addition to announcing the increase that it was caused by the increased cost of maintenance.

DURING THE CIVIL WAR.

Long Time Prominent as One of the Leaders of the Republican Party and Also Noted as Being the Author of the Homestead Act.

Glenwood, Pa., April 1.—Former Congressman Galusha A. Grow died at his residence here Sunday afternoon as a result of a general break down, attributed to old age.

Mr. Grow was elected to congress from the Wilmot district of this state in 1851, being the youngest member of that body, and after retirement from public life for nearly forty years he re-entered the house of representatives as congressman at large from Pennsylvania four years ago. When he retired his service extended over the longest service, although not continuous, of any man who ever sat in that body.

During the antebellum days he was one of the best known men in the

In View of Persons Unable to Effect Their Rescue Two of the Unfortunate Railroaders Perished, Screams of One Agonizing.

Fort Worth, April 1.—Because, as is alleged, the telegraph operator of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railway failed to deliver train orders to a northbound cattle train, carrying thirty cars, two trains came together less than thirty minutes later in a sag between two cuts seven miles south of this city, both trains going down grade at a rate of forty miles an hour, at 3 o'clock this morning.

Six men were burned to death, thirteen cars caught fire and over 300 head of cattle lost their lives. Fire also broke out in the southbound train, which was carrying merchandise. Eight cars were consumed.

The dead are: Engineer Wooden and Fireman Hines of the southbound train, Engineer Caldwell and Fireman Wallace of the northbound train and two brakemen, names unknown.

The southbound train had until 4 o'clock to make Bedford. The operator, according to the statement of the conductor, cleared the northbound train.

The impact utterly demolished the two engines. It is not known whether either crew had time to jump, but all six men were buried under the debris. One man, just who it is impossible to determine because of the roar of the fire at the time, was still alive when a relief train from here reached the scene thirty minutes later. It was impossible to dig into the wreckage, and the workers were compelled to stand by and hear the agonizing screams of the unfortunate man as he was being roasted to death.

BAPTIST CHURCH REVIVAL BEGINS.

Meeting opened Sunday Morning by the Pastor—Dr. Risner Arrived Yesterday and Preached Last Night.

The revival services opened Sunday morning at 11 o'clock at the First Baptist church. Dr. H. C. Risner of Tyler, Texas, who will conduct the meeting, was delayed in his arrival until yesterday afternoon, in consequence of which Dr. Butler preached Sunday morning and evening before large congregations.

At the morning service Dr. Butler read a scripture lesson from the Sermon on the Mount. His discourse was based on the attitude of the disciples towards Christ, as indicated by the phrase, "They drew near unto him." From this suggestive subject was drawn one of the strongest and most instructive gospel sermons ever heard in Bryan, a fitting opening for what is believed will result in a great revival meeting. The magnetism of Christ, the influence of His presence and the safety from sin of ever abiding at His feet were clearly and forcefully presented. "God's Preparation of the Gospel for Man," was the subject chosen at the Sunday evening service,

Services will be held regularly each day at 10:30 a. m. and 8:00 p. m. Dr. Butler makes earnest exhortation for the attendance not only of the members of the church but of the people of the town and country generally.

Another great congregation filled the church last night to hear Dr. Risner's initial sermon. He is a man of splendid physique and rugged strength combined with intelligence and culture. A student and a traveler in many lands, he adorns his discourse with many pleasing incidents and apt illustrations.

Dr. Risner selected for the scripture lesson twelve verses from the sixth chapter of Romans. His text was from Romans xii, I: "I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service." The point was forcibly made that the essentials of service are the building of character, fixed and definite purpose and sacrifice.

At the close of the sermon a very large number rose on proposition to earnestly work for the success of the meeting.

THAW'S EASTER.

Rendered Cheerful by a Visit, Under Special Permit, of His Wife.

New York April 1.—Easter Sunday for Harry K. Thaw in the tombs was made more cheerful by a visit from his wife to whom had been granted a special permit to pass the afternoon with her husband. When Mrs. Thaw left, she spoke for the first time since the tragedy last June to reporters.

"Harry grows more cheerful and satisfied with the way his affairs are progressing every day," she said. "Like all the rest of us, he is perfectly confident that the commission will find him sane and that the trial will go on. He even talked today of being free next Sunday and planned how we should dine together."

Thaw attended the Easter service, conducted by Rev. Dr. Sanderson, in the morning. Some of his counsel visited him during the day.

SPLATTERED WITH BLOOD.

Deep Gash Over Lady's Right Temple and Husband Missing.

Chicago, April 1.—Mrs. Sarah Graff, of 466 West Harrison street, was found dead in bed at her home with a deep gash over her right temple. The floor of the room and the bedclothing were splattered with blood. The police are looking for the woman's husband, Charles Graff, whom it is alleged killed her with an ax.

RESCUER SLAIN.

Man Alleged to Have Done Deed Said to Have Assaulted Girl.

St. Joseph, Mo., April 1.—Charles L. Stanley, a commercial traveler, was shot through the heart. It is alleged that Wesley Christopher had assaulted a young woman in an alley. Her screams caused Stanley to go to her rescue, when he was shot to death on arriving at the scene. Christopher was arrested.

Nothing Done.

Chicago, April 1.—Chairman Knapp of the interstate commission and Charles P. Neill, commissioner of labor, were unable to settle Sunday the differences between the railroad managers and the representatives of the conductors and trainmen. Mr. Knapp stated progress was being made toward a settlement.

CTRESS RIDES AS GODIVA RODE.

LISH GIRL TAKES NUDE PRINT THROUGH STREETS OF COVENTRY TOWN.

UNITED ON WHITE HORSE

ole of "Ye Ancient Toune" Are ocked When Told of the Occurrence—Journey Made When Na-tives Are Wrapped in Slumber.

ondon.—There is perhaps no another community in the length and width of England just now than people of "ye ancient toune of entry." They simply declined to believe that while they slept a woman rode through their streets on horseback in much the same way as their loved Godiva made the journey in days of long ago. Their unbelief, however, does not dispose of fact.

If this skepticism was aroused by feat of "La Milo," a beautifully ped woman, who is going the rounds of the variety theaters in London posing as certain classical figures of the altogether."

Her midnight ride nude through the streets of Coventry has only had the effect of adding to the personal enjoyment she has derived from the realization of a strange whim.

"Knowing that steps had been made discredit the story, I took advantage of 'La Milo's presence in Liverpool," writes a correspondent, "to call upon her and hear what she has to say."

The fact that her feat was told in detail in the newspapers than it might have been was a concession to popular feeling and protection to some extent to those who, in the face of authentic particulars, might have been called to account for allowing nude woman to pass through the streets.

"La Milo talked freely of her es-pade. When she was a mere girl, it is said, she made up her mind that she ever found herself in Coventry she would repeat the feat of Lady Godiva, and when she arrived there on her tour the whim returned.

"She says she would have made the ride without secrecy, but for the frown of officialdom whose sanction she sought, it being refused.

"Therefore, she took matters into her own hands. Her ride started at two a.m. She was made up at the theater as she does for her usual show, the only difference being that she followed the legendary route of Lady Godiva.

She Followed the Legendary Route of Lady Godiva.

the preparation she used contained properties for resisting cold. With a big cloak she left the stage door for St. Mary's hall, and mounted on a white steed in waiting for her. She strapped her cloak to the side of the saddle, for use in case of emergency, and rode fairly rapidly through the streets which the legend gives as Godiva's probable route.

"Apparently there was no local 'Peeping Tom' to tell of her ride. At any rate Milo got back to the theater without a soul having seen her. A flashlight photograph was then taken of her as she sat on the horse.

HAMPION LAZY MAN: LAYS ABED 30 YEARS

ONLY GETS UP WHEN MOTHER IS TAKEN TO HOSPITAL AND THERE IS NO ONE TO WAIT ON HIM.

Belfast.—A man named Thompson, who went to bed in 1877 and did not leave it until a fortnight ago, is believed to have established a world's record.

Thompson, who lives with his mother at Clare, Lurgan, was a boy of 11 when he went to bed. He was looked after by his mother, and his presence in the house was hardly known to the villagers. In all probability he would have remained in bed for the rest of his life had not a crisis occurred in his domestic affairs a fortnight ago.

Mrs. Thompson was then taken ill and had to be taken to the infirmary.

STRANGE BUT TRUE STORY.

Husband Suddenly Loses Memory and Wanders Far from Home.

Denver.—Six months ago a steady and methodical clerk in the Southern Pacific offices here telephoned at noon to his wife that he was just about to take the street car for home. From that moment Nathum Wing disappeared as completely as if the ground had swallowed him up. He left a happy household, a young wife and child, his accounts were correct, he did not gamble, drink or in any manner dissipate.

There was much excitement over the case and the finally accepted theory was that he had wandered, while temporarily demented, into the mountains and had perished. The state took up the hunt and the mounted men of the national guard were called out to search the vicinity of the city. Attempts to discover his whereabouts were in vain. His wife sold their home and went to her parents in Boston.

A day or two ago a clerk in a New Orleans railroad office demanded of his fellow workmen that they tell him where Columbine street (the place of Wing's residence in Denver) was located. For a long time he could not be persuaded that he was in New Orleans. Gradually he realized that he was Nathum Wing, but insisted that all that had happened since he started to take a car for home to luncheon was a blank.

His companions could only tell him that he came into the offices a few weeks before and was given a place. He had done his work well, but had been strangely silent as to himself. He telegraphed to Denver and receiving no answer wired Boston. His wife sent back an overjoyed welcome and he is now on his way to join her. It has developed that once before he suffered two days from temporary aberration of mind.

How curious are the vagaries of the human mind, that the cord of memory should suddenly snap—only to be restored with the same abruptness. This man's story sounds incredible, but there have been any number of authentic cases equally strange.

FREAK HEN HAS FOUR LEGS.

Mount Vernon, Ill.—Mrs. Carrie Greenwalt of Farrington township has a four-legged hen that is the attraction of the neighborhood. The hen in other ways is like her tribe, and the additional two legs do not in any way interfere with her work as a hen and a mother. She had a desire to "set" early this year, and is the proud mother of a large brood of chicks.

The extra legs grow out just below the joint connecting the normal leg and foot, are perfectly formed, and almost as long as her working legs.

Enlightened.

"My sister sent you her love and a kiss," said the designing young man.

"How could she send me a kiss?" innocently asked the unsophisticated young girl.

And the designing young man answered with illustrations taken from life: "By male—special delivery."

WORLD-WIDE STUDY of EARTHQUAKES

PROF MILNE'S EARTHQUAKE STATION AT SHIDE, ISLE OF WIGHT

When the earth shakes herself and in the shaking tumbles down some of the works of man, there is a revival of earthquakeology. People are generally interested in that which is most closely connected with the startling current events, and it is so with reference to earthquakes, for the very recent destructive shocks in San Francisco, Valparaiso and Jamaica have served to quicken public interest in what science is doing in the study of seismic disturbances.

Few people in this country, perhaps, know that at Shide, Newport, Isle of Wight, an observing station exists for recording instrumentally the sensible earthquake shocks of the globe, as well as those earth tremors which constitute what have been called the "unfelt breathings of our earth." Prof. John Milne, F. R. S., inventor of the Milne horizontal pendulum seismograph, is the director of this station. Formerly, for upwards of 20 years, he occupied the chair of mining and geology in the Imperial college of engineering, Tokio, Japan, and while in that country conducted pioneer work on its earthquake and volcanic phenomena. With him at Shide, as assistant, is Mr. Shinobu Hirota. Mainly through Professor Milne's efforts and enthusiasm, supplemented by the loyal help of committee of the British association, 40 stations of a similar character to his own have been successfully inaugurated in various parts of the world, the observers of which cooperate in the general work, sending to Shide from time to time registers of earthquake disturbances and other data for reduction, as also seismograms.

In Great Britain, in addition to Shide, the stations for earthquake observations are: Edinburg (Royal observatory), Bidston (Liverpool observatory), Kew (Natural Physical laboratory), and Paisley (the Coates observatory). At Shide time is obtained from the post office at Newport, which receives a daily signal from Greenwich. An arrangement is also in force noting the time by means of the sun. For this purpose in the south wall of the observatory there is a vertical slit made of two sheets of iron. The image of this is thrown by the sun on to a north wall 16 feet distant. When this image reaches a line on the wall the sun is due south.

Earthquake inquiry, as a branch of modern observational science—the "new seismology," as it has been styled—is a study of comparatively recent birth. Whereas in former times disturbances due to sudden movements of the earth's substance formed the theme of more or less highly colored narratives and tales, much sermonizing, by the way, being thrown in, nowadays all that is changed, the casual having given place to exact investigation, in which the mathematician, physicist and geologist each bear a part. So rapid, indeed, have been the growth and march of knowledge relating to the phenomena of earthquakes, the propagation and velocities of those speeding earth-waves or pulsations which are correlated with them, and the times and places of origin of the movements themselves, that some leading seismologists agreed not long since that the time was ripe for the initiation and maintenance of international cooperation among workers in all countries in this young science.

In 1902 the German government asked whether his majesty's government would be willing to engage in a conference with the view to bringing about an international inquiry into earthquakes. Provisional and favorable consideration having been obtained, a conference was actually held at Strassburg in the following year, when 25 countries were represented, though France, it should be mentioned, was not among the number. As an outcome, it was decided that a central association should be constituted, with its headquarters at Strassburg.

The first meeting of the permanent commission of this newly formed International Seismological association was recently held at Rome, under the presidency of Prof. Luigi Palazzo, of the university of that city, delegates attending from Great Britain, France, Germany, the United States, Russia, Japan, Spain, the Netherlands, Roumania, and other constituent states. The representatives of the British government was Prof. Arthur Schuster, F. R. S., of Victoria university, Manchester. It was decided that the first general assembly of the whole body forming the association should be held at The Hague about the middle of September next. A president will then be elected, who will hold office for four years. The smaller permanent commission referred to above is to meet biennially. It is perhaps necessary to say that the financial support of the association rests on the basis of fixed contributions from the governments of the countries who have signified adhesion to the scheme. As the result of discussions, it was decided, among other matters, that it would be desirable for seismological stations to deposit seismograph records of earthquakes with the central bureau at Strassburg, as well as to make provision for the inter-distribution of such data. The determination to establish a seismic service in the Arctic regions was, too, an interesting departure; as also the initiation of a competition for the construction of a seismometer which shall record the movements of the soil during earthquakes which have their origin near the place of observation. For this latter, prizes are offered of the approximate value of $250, $175, $125 and $75 respectively, perhaps the most novel form of competition which science has ever indulged in. The instruments are to be exhibited at The Hague in September.

Apart from theories dealing with the behavior of our planet and its internal constitution, there is a practical side to sustained seismological investigation. Earthquake destructivity, says Professor Milne, can be expressed in mechanical units, hence structures can be designed to resist known forces. Records of the unfelt movements of earthquakes—that is to say, those that are not sensibly felt by man—indicate the time, the position, and the cause of certain cable interruptions. Again, the localisation of the origins of world-shaking manifestations, besides indicating sub-oceanic sites of geological activity, denote positions where the hydrographer may expect to find unusual depths, and they have also shown routes to be avoided by those who lay cables.

WERE CREATING A DEMAND.

Shrewd Trick of Waiters in Quick Lunch Restaurant.

The quick lunch restaurant resounds with a rapid succession of shrill calls down the speaking tube for "fried fish."

A clerk studying the menu was about to give his order to the waiter when he hesitated and inquired:

"Is the fried fish extra fine to-day? Everybody seems to be taking it."

"Them calls for fried fish is fakes," said the girl. "We've our orders to push the fish to-day. The boss calculated that, being Lent and a Friday at that, we'd have a rush on for fish. But our trade don't run much to the religious, it seems. I haven't sold but two fried fish all day. So now we are pushing it."

"How's that?"

"Well, you see, the boss can't have all that fish left on his hands and we know how to get rid of it all right. We wake up the customers to the fish by shouting out fake orders for it. I've rung in a 'fried fish' every other order for the last ten minutes."

She sopped up a little pool of water on the polished mahogany table and with a sweep of her hand cleared it of plates and glasses.

"Fried fish one!" shouted a waiter.

"Fried fish one!" came another call.

"Fried fish one!" came a third.

"You see," the girl resumed, "they are taking notice. Them orders are the real thing. When 'one' is tacked on the end the cook knows to send it up. We make people eat here what we want to get rid of most."

She interrupted her conversation with a loud "Fried fish!"

"It ain't that there's anything wrong with the fish that we're pushing it," she resumed. "But fish is one of them things it's hard to use over again, so it must go. After 11 o'clock when the boss saw the fish was hangin' fire, he gave us his official tip to push it, and that means a rebate of two cents on every order of fish we bring in. Why don't you try it? Nobody's kicked about it."

"Fried fish one!"

For the Homeseekers' Benefit

By Theodore Waters

(Copyright, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

"Did you know, Hocky," remarked Mr. David Gimbold to his partner, Mr. Israel Hochheimer, "did you know that just previous to his death, Roswell P. Flower was planning a corner in zinc?"

"No, I did not know it," replied Mr. Hochheimer, reflectively, gazing out of the window of their Wall street office.

"I've been thinking, Hocky," went on Mr. Gimbold, "that we might take up the matter where Flower laid it down. I have a notion that we might corral the necessary funds simply by modifying Mr. Flower's methods. In fact, I believe we could get the government to help us.

"Nearly all of our zinc comes from Arkansas and Missouri. There is a trust, but it is a puny affair, down at Joplin, with a paltry half-million at stake. For a peculiar condition exists. Most of the land in the zinc country is government land, subject to the homestead law. The government charges a fee of about $14 for every 160 acres of land, but every applicant must live five years on the land before he gets his title. Now, if we could get that government land we would be able to control almost half of the zinc output of the district. And we could force the trust to buy us out."

"Very good," said Mr. Hochheimer, as Gimbold paused for breath. "But since no man can secure more than 160 acres, and since each applicant must swear that he intends to establish a home, and is not taking the land for purpose of speculation, how are we to get around it?"

"Hocky," replied Mr. Gimbold, waving his hand around comprehensively, "there are many poor fellows in this city who would be glad to own land in Arkansas or in Missouri. You know a great many, and so do I."

"Well, then, if we showed those poor fellows how to get land free in Arkansas and Missouri—if we paid the government fee for them, and bought them railway tickets to their new homes, don't you think they would be grateful enough to assign us the right to mine whatever ore might be under the surface of the land?"

"Davy," said Mr. Hochheimer, feelingly, "you are a wonder."

"But that isn't all," said Gimbold. "I believe there are many benevolent old persons in this city who would be delighted to subscribe to a fund which we would be glad to manage, and which would be used to transport those poor fellows to their new homes."

"Beautiful," said Mr. Hochheimer. "Simply beautiful."

"Of course, it would not be necessary to say anything about the option on what is under the surface, either to the benevolent old persons or to the poor fellows, until after the latter had started on their way."

"But how would we hold them, in case they refused?" asked Mr. Hochheimer, anxiously.

"Well, you see," replied Mr. Gimbold, "as managers of the fund we would go to the railroads and secure transportation in bulk. There ought to be a good commission in that. Of course, those poor fellows will want their household goods sent on ahead. We will be glad to do that for them, but we will not give each one a ticket until just before the train starts. I am sure that not one of them would object to signing the option on the spot. In case any one refuses, it will be very easy to have one of our 'investigators' suddenly find that under the rules of the benevolent fund the ungrateful fellow is ineligible."

Gimbold went into the churches and the charity bureaus and among the old gentlemen, and appealed in the name of all that is kindly and true for the relief of the suffering poor. From the moment it got fairly launched, the scheme began to take care of itself.

"Great Caesar, Hocky, look there!"

It was the morning after that memorable Sunday when the three color prospectus had formed the basis of so many sermons. Hochheimer and Gimbold had come down town together somewhat late. They went up to their office in a crowded elevator, and when they got off at their floor the crowd went with them. The corridor was jammed from wall to wall with an indiscriminate mass of humanity—male, female, respectable, disreputable, well-dressed, unkempt, native, foreign—pushing and crowding, babbling and gesturing.

There was no turning them away, those poor fellows, for not only were there clergymen among them, as Gimbold had seen, but reverend gentlemen were in many cases leaders of special contingents of home-seekers, and many others in the crowd carried letters from contributors to the fund which were not to be ignored. It was late in the day before the last application was received, the last dreary explanation made, the last golden promise uttered. Day after day the crowd surged into the office and out again. And it grew not only in size, but in its exactions, for humanity in general is very insistent in the matter of its rights when they involve free-for-all schemes.

Then the notoriety which the newspapers gave the scheme not only increased the size of the crowds, but it brought in a couple of government inspectors, who wanted to know if it was being thoroughly explained to each applicant that the non-speculative clause in the government contract would be rigidly enforced. It also brought in a "plain-clothes man" from Mulberry street, who caused the partners additional concern.

They set out upon their task with callous disregard of the consequences. They were sending a horde of unfortunate thousands of miles away from familiar associations, to mountain fastnesses which in many cases would yield nothing to the plow, and in return they were exacting the only product which made the land worth the acquiring. Summoned to their office, the home-seekers came one by one, and in the private room the question was put to each. Some of them, poor innocents! were eager and willing to do anything in return for the boon of a promised home. Some had to be coaxed, some wheedled, some threatened, and a few, who saw through the whole business, placated. But on the morning of departure Gimbold and Hochheimer had secured signed options on mineral rights from three-fourths of the home-seekers. The rest were considered too risky to approach.

On the morning of the departure they went over to the railway station. Nothing but the fascination of seeing the last of their handiwork took them there.

In the end they were compelled to make a speech—Gimbold made it from the rear platform of the train—a speech so inspiring in its patriotism, so tender in its pathos, that the enthusiasm invoked was tremendous, and the people struggled with one another to get to the

BRYAN, TEXAS, APRIL 2, 1907

PROF. ALVORD BACK AGAIN.

Becomes a Member of the Faculty.
Dairying to be a Specialty.

A new addition to the faculty of the Agricultural and Mechanical College is Prof. Charles H. Alvord, who was elected by the directors at their recent meeting at Austin to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Prof. F. S. Johnston. Prof. Alvord is not a stranger at the college, for he was associate professor of agriculture during the four years of Col. Foster's administration as president of the college. Nor is he a stranger among the farmers and stockmen of the state, for in addition to his four years of residence here he has visited Texas every fall for a period of from four to six weeks as special representative of the Breeder's Gazette. As a result he probably has a wider circle of acquaintances in Texas than in Michigan, his native state.

Prof. Alvord graduated from the Michigan Agricultural College in 1895, and for the next two years served his alma mater as assistant professor of agriculture. Then followed his four years of acceptable service to the A. and M. Since leaving here in 1902 he has lived on his farm, engaging in general farming, with the breeding of fine cattle and fine hogs as his specialty. During this period he has also been active in college extension work and in farmer's institute work, as a lecturer on dairying and other topics of practical concern to the farmers.

In his work in this State Prof. Alvord will devote considerable attention to the subject of dairying, both as a teacher at the college and as a lecturer to farmers' meetings and elsewhere.

Prof. Alvord was married several years ago and has three children. He arrived a few days ago with his family and will occupy a cottage near the chapel.

RECORD BREAKING SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Attendance at the Baptist Church Reached Four Hundred Sunday.
Splendid Program.

Dr. Butler, the pastor, Supt. P. M. Law and other workers of the Sunday School of the First Baptist church, arranged a Parents' Day Rally last Sunday morning, setting the attendance figure at 300 or over. The results of their effort were gratifying in the extreme, and surpassed their most sanguine expectations. Three hundred and fifty enrolled students and fifty visitors, who took part in the class work, were present, and in addition a large number of visitors who did not sit with the classes. A collection of $30 was taken. The Sunday School now has an enrollment of 400, which is a net gain of fifty as a result of the rally.

The large church was crowded with adults as well as children and presented an inspiring scene. The most excellent program, which has heretofore been published in the Eagle, was carried out with great pleasure and profit. Supt. Law and his co-workers are to be congratulated upon the success of the rally.

DISTRICT COURT MATTERS.

District court convened for the fifth week yesterday with the following list of jurors: Charles Payne, Robert Smith, D. D. Jolly, W. R. Parker, M. S. Edge, D. E. Thompson, H. F. Prinzell, Tyler Haswell, Joe Zak, Charles Schultz, O. H. Hopkins, Jim Mathis, Jr., Allen Smith, P. Syptak, J. R. Pate, Ben Foster, T. B. Smith, Jim Tobias, Walter Wilcox, Tom Wheeler, W. L. Powers, Joe Greenland, J. J. Riley, J. D. Barnett. All were excused for the week except twelve empaneled for immediate service.

The suit of N. B. Tucker vs. the Southwestern Telegraph and Telephone Company, for damages for personal injuries, went to trial on a rehearing. Judgment for defendant in the sum of $1500 was rendered at a previous trial, the case being subsequently reversed and remanded.

J. W. Batts, Cy Koontz and D. W. Davenport have been appointed jury commissioners.

M. H. James, Capt. A. F. Wilson, R. G. Tabor, Dr. A. L. Mondrick and W. H. Cole have gone on a fishing trip to the Trinity river with parties from Oakwoods.

INCREASE IN POSTAL RECEIPTS.

Growth and Prosperity of Bryan Shown by Net Gain of 25 Per Cent During the Past Year.

The growth and prosperity of Bryan is shown by a twenty-five per cent net gain in the receipts of the postoffice for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1907. It has been said that the postoffice is the best index of a city's prosperity, and this showing is one of which every citizen has reason to feel proud. The gain entitles the postmaster to an increase of $200 and one clerk to an increase of about $100 per year.

Postmaster Myers gave out the following figures yesterday, showing the business of the office for the year by quarters and the total receipts. The statement is as follows:

April 1 to June 30, 1906	$ 2,244.68
July 1 to September 30, 1906	2,273.76
October 1 to December 31, 1906	3,025.80
January 1 to March 31, 1907	2,998.41
Grand total for the year	$10,542.65

The net gain is about twenty-five per cent over the previous year or any year in the history of the Bryan office.

GRAHAM-BROADWAY.

Mr. Eugene Alva Graham and Miss Velma Broadway of this city were quietly married Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. Jas. A. Challenner at the home of the minister. The young people kept their plans to themselves until Saturday, when the word went round among their friends and they were the recipients of many congratulations in advance which are now being repeated.

The groom is a son of Mrs. Joe Ransome, a popular and industrious young man and has held a position with J. Allen Myers for a number of years.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Broadway, who have made their home in Bryan for the past six years. She is a graduate of the Bryan Academic and Collegiate Institute, lovely in person and possessed of charming qualities of heart and mind.

HANGED TO A DERRICK

Negro Who Assulted a White Girl Quickly

PUNISHED FOR HIS CRIME

After Being Identified by the Victim of His Shameful Deed the Miscreant Was Taken in Charge by a Mob and Soon Disposed Of.

Sterrett, I. T., April 1.—Just as a crowded excursion train from Denison to South McAlester reached the depot at Sterrett Sunday it ran into a desperate struggle between United States officers and a great mob of infuriated people for possession of a negro accused of criminal assault upon Miss Maud Misner, near Red river bridge last Saturday. Into the melee the passengers were thrust, and many were in time to see the officers overpowered after the depot had been battered down and the negro dragged with a rope about his neck into an old derrick 300 yards away and lynched.

The officers had been waiting at the depot with the prisoner, intending to take the excursion train to Durant.

The negro was captured in the afternoon near Colbert by a posse of citizens and turned over to the United States officers, who had been notified at Denison of the crime and had come to Colbert to assist in the search.

Some of the Colbert people were in favor of hanging the negro there, but were prevailed upon to let the law take its course.

The officers started to drive overland to Durant, and had been assured by the city marshal of Sterrett, or Cale, as it is also called, they say, that there would be no trouble if they drove through that town.

They held no conversation with the negro other than to secure a name.

At Cale the officers concluded that it would be safer to wait for the excursion train bringing a baseball crowd from Denison, conveying the negro to Durant by rail.

At the depot, however, a mob of several hundred persons met them, and the officers retreated into the depot, where they repulsed the crowd.

The train pulled into the depot and the officers attempted to fight their way through the crowd with the negro, but outside were again attacked and were compelled to retreat into the depot again.

The crowd attacked the door and battering in and overpowering officers, took their weapons away from them and took possession of the negro. No shots were fired during the melee.

A rope was tied about the negro's neck and he was dragged off to an old oil well derrick, 300 yards from the depot, the officers protesting.

The negro was severely beaten on the way and several attempts were made to stab him. He was placed on a platform, the rope was thrown over a beam and he was struck quickly up without having been given a chance to make a statement.

As the writhing body swung in the air possibly seventy-five shots were fired, but only one bullet struck the body. As the body was struck up someone stashed the negro's throat.

When the crowd had to an extent dispersed the body was cut down, but not until the members of the mob had almost stripped it nude in search of souvenirs.

In the hat of the negro was found punched with a perforating stamp the name "Dock Jones." He told the officers his name was Jim Williams, and though they have only this to go by, believe he told the truth, and that the hat may have been picked up by the negro.

At Colbert the negro was put in a room with four other negroes. Accompanied by her mother, Miss Misner was taken into the room. She pointed out the negro under arrest as her assailant and from a collection of weapons on a table selected one taken from the prisoner as the pistol he had taken from her at the time of the crime. The identification of both negro and pistol was without hesitation.

TOWNSITE LOT SALES.

Commissioner of General Land Office Has Given Out the Dates.

Washington, March 30.—The commissioner of the general land office has issued an announcement of the sale of lots in the townships on the Kiowa, Comanche and Apache lands as follows: Randlett, beginning on Monday, May 13; Escalante, beginning May 23; Quanah, beginning June 3; Isadore, beginning June 13; Ahpeaton, beginning June 23, and Koonkazachey, beginning July 5. The sales will continue from day to day until all lots are sold. Purchasers will be required to pay one-fourth of purchase price in cash.

The fact that the government owns these lands was the reason for the president's veto of the bill authorizing commutation of homestead entries for townsite purposes in these reservations.

The interior department took the position that the proposed legislation would interfere with the sale of the government's lands.

BOY FATALLY SHOT.

Team Rearing Up Saved the Life of the Lady's Father.

Greenville, Tex., April 1.—Two miles north of Celeste Adam Felty approached J. M. Brown and son, Oscar, fourteen years old, who were at work in a field. The boy was shot, dying soon afterward. A shot was fired at Brown, but the team rearing up, threw Brown down, the shot striking the team. Felty and Brown have had a land controversy for some time. Felty surrendered at Wolfe City.

FOUR FATALITIES.

Buggy Struck by a Train and Bodies Horribly Mutilated.

Kansas City, April 1.—A buggy containing George Henry and H. Monner and their wives were struck by a train two miles east of here at a crossing. All four were killed. The horses escaped. Two bodies were taken some distance on the cowcatcher and the other two thrown from the track. The bodies were horribly mutilated. The parties were returning from an Easter picnic.

Missouri Senator Dies.

San Antonio, April 1.—State Senator Thomas O'Connor of Joplin, Mo., died here. He came here three months ago in search of health.

PRAYER CAUSES STIR.

Why Are the Lawmakers Either Blessed or Cursed?

Austin, April 1.—The prayer offered Monday in the house by Chaplain Joyce created quite a stir. He said, among other things: "Hundreds of men in the state are today cursing the laws recently enacted. Why do they not come and curse the lawmakers? Perhaps they have a wholesome fear that their teeth will be knocked down their throats by the fists of these stalwart lawmakers. Hundreds of thousands are blessing these laws. Why not bless the men who passed them?"

An effort was made in the house to reconsider the vote by which the resolution to adjourn sine die on April 6 was adopted, but the proposition failed by a vote of 55 to 42. It seems the senate has undergone a change regarding the question of the adoption of the house concurrent resolution to adjourn April 6, as the resolution was not considered morning morning and not brought up. It now appears to be the programme to take up the resolution and amend it so as to provide for adjournment on a day later in this month, and even then an extra session could not be avoided.

The house devoted most of the morning session Monday to the consideration to the Alderdice county supervision bill, which requires the election of a county superintendent in all counties having a scholastic population of 2,000. This bill was engrossed. The McCallum bill, authorizing the incorporation of fishing and boating clubs, was passed finally in the house.

A resolution adopted recommitted the house joint resolution providing for an amendment to the constitution with reference to the initiative and referendum.

The James blanket primary election bill was passed to engrossment.

A bill was introduced in the house imposing a fine of $100 to $500 and a term of sixty days to one year in jail for carrying a pistol.

The 2-cent passenger fare bill was set for Tuesday afternoon before the house committee on common carriers.

ONE SUPREME COURT.

Senate Adopts Resolution to Abolish Civil Appeals Courts.

Austin, April 1.—The senate adopted a joint resolution to amend the constitution so as to abolish the courts of civil appeals and criminal court and in lieu thereof create one supreme court, to consist of one chief justice and fifteen associate justices.

Senator Alexander made an effort to get up his bill to create a third district court for Tarrant county. He said there were now on the docket of the district courts of that county 3,200 cases—2,400 of them tax suits. He said that the tax suits were due to the Colquitt tax law on statutes and that the same condition existed over the state in other courts. The senate refused to suspend pending business and take up this bill.

The senate concurred in house amendments to the Santa Fe merger bill and now the measure goes to the governor.

The senate joint resolution to increase the governor's salary from $4,000 to $8,000 and fix that of the lieutenant governor at $2,500 passed finally in the senate.

The senate concurred in the house amendments to Looney's "blind tiger" bill.

CARPENTERS QUIT WORK.

Eight Master Builders of Houston Refuse to Pay New Wage Scale.

Houston, April 1.—About fifty union carpenters out of a total membership of 500 went on strike as the result of the refusal of eight master builders to grant the demand for increased wages recently submitted. Other builders granted the demands, and it is expected that there will be no material interruption of building operations at Houston. The men demand $4 per day.

NO ROOM FOR THEM.

Gamblers Are Not Desired by the People of Oklahoma.

Lawton, April 1.—"There is no room in Oklahoma for Texas gamblers," is the motto being adopted by the new state's cities. It is said that dozens of them are entering Oklahoma from the Lone Star state, their advent having been noted in several places. Lawton appears to be a favorite point, but city and county officials are taking steps to put on a tight lid.

OUT OVER STATE.

Granite Cutters Go on Strike to Enforce Demand For Increase.

Waco, April 1.—Union granite cutters here and all over the state are on strike. They demand 10 per cent wage advance and closed shop. About twenty are out at this city. One or two cities are said to have signed.

Granite Cutters on Strike.

Sherman, April 1.—Granite cutters are out. They demand $3.35 per day.

McCombs a Free Man.

Waxahachie, Tex., April 1.—The charge of bigamy against H. H. McCombs has been dismissed. McCombs was convicted at a previous term of court and given five years in the penitentiary. Upon appeal the case was reversed and remanded. When the case was called Monday morning the county attorney asked that it be dismissed. McCombs has been in jail nearly two years.

Bishop Granberry Dead.

Richmond, Va., April 1.—Bishop John C. Granberry of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, died suddenly at his home in Ashland Monday while sitting in a chair. He was seventy-six years of age. He had been a bishop since 1882.
